SAVE YOUR EYES.
OUR PEBBLE SPECTACLES
And Eye Glasses are the best for failing sight. Cut and polished from the "Real Stone" they are perfectly transparent (will not glass like a diamond). Being thicker than the glasses they receive a finer polish and always retain it. One pair carefully suited to your eyes will last as long as five pairs of the best glass, besides preserving the sight almost unimpaired all that time. By our new system for testing the sight, we are enabled to suit any eye so accurately that no injurious effects will follow. We repair Spectacles and Eye Glasses, and insert Pebbles or the best glass Lenses in old frames. Our Bi-Focal Spectacles are for old people who require spectacles to see far as well as near by only one pair being required. To persons who cannot call on us we send our new Illustrated Price List which shows how to order.

AGRICULTURE DOMESTIC & SCIENCE.
The Moral Value of Physical Strength.
The American scholar and thinker is by rule a dyspeptic. He is a morfated, lantern-jawed, thin, nervous man. This is partly the effect of diseases, and partly that of diet and regu-men. In the old days of hand-labor and prayers before daylight in the colleges, and long morning walks before breakfast, and suicidal, consumptive habits, it required a pretty tough man to live through his studies at all. We are now doing this thing better, but we have not reached the highest outcome of the change, and shall not reach it, probably, for several generations. But we have come to the recognition of the fact that it does not toughen a man to reduce his diet, to cut short his sleep, to take long walks on an empty stomach, and to indulge in cold baths when there is no well-supported vitality to respond to them.
We have come to the conviction that for a useful public life, brains are of very little account if there are no muscles to do their bidding. In short, we have learned that without physical vitality the predominant learning, the most charming talents, and the best accomplishments are of little use to a public man, in whatever field of professional life he may be engaged.

Preserving Eggs.
For the benefit of our readers who preserve eggs for future use, we give the following from a correspondent of the English Mechanic, who says in 1871: "I preserved eggs so perfectly that, after a lapse of six months, they were mistaken, when brought to the table, for fresh laid eggs, and I believe they would have kept equally good for twelve months. My mode of preservation was to varnish the eggs as soon after they were laid as possible with a thin copal varnish, taking care that the whole of the shell was covered with varnish. I subsequently found that by painting the eggs with fresh albumen, beaten up with a little salt, they were preserved equally well and for as long a period. After varnishing or painting with albumen, I lay the eggs upon rough blotting paper, as I found that when allowed to rest on aluminum stick so fast to the table or plate as to take away a chip out of the shell. This is entirely obviated by the use of the blotting paper. I pack the eggs in boxes of dry bran.

How to Fatten Stock.
An old farmer thus relates his experience in fattening beef and feeding cows for milk. "My practice in fattening beef and swine, as well as feeding cows for milk, has been to pour boiling water on as much meal as would not make the animal's bowels move too freely, at night and in the morning when the meal is cool give it to the cow or pigs. In covering the meal with boiling water in this way the starch of the meal is dissolved, and the latent nutritive properties extracted, and the animal receives the entire nutriment of the grain. I have for two years past fattened two ordinary size cows, feeding only meal and hay, and only three hundred pounds each of the former and each yielded upward of forty pounds of rough tallow.
Salt was given once a week, and occasionally a tablespoonful of wood ashes. In my experience one hundred pounds scalded and fed as above is equal to two hundred pounds of dry.

The Lanceter Farmer gives this remedy for gapes in chickens: "In a recent conversation with an experienced chicken-grower, he informed me that he had been very successful in conquering that precarious disease in his young fowls, by the application of air-slaked lime. As soon as a manifestation of gapes in his fowls appears, he confines his chickens in a box, one at a time, sufficiently large to contain the bird, and places a coarse piece of cotton or linen cloth over the top. Upon this he places the pulverized lime, and taps the screen sufficiently to cause the lime to fall through.
This time dust the fowl inhales and causes it to sneeze, and in a short time the cause of the gapes is thrown out in the form of a slimy mass of worms, which had accumulated in the windpipe and smaller air vessels. This remedy he considers superior to any he has ever tried, and he seldom fails to effect a perfect cure."

It is said that the color of the inside of the cow's ear affords an infallible guide to the selection of a good butter cow. If the skin on the inside of the ear is of a rich yellow or orange color and the lining of the ear is covered with an oily secretion, the cow will be sure to give a good quality of milk rich in butter.
A farmer in Virginia is said to have seven hundred acres planted with tomatoes, which is probably the largest plantation of the kind in the world.
He grows them for canning establishments in Baltimore.
